Loving you was just a storybook of fair
I've decided there ain't no real life anywhere
Soon I'll be a faded picture in the book of your mind
Another town is somewhere down the line.

Another town, another grocery store
Another town, another set of swinging doors
Somehow I'm a little bit suspecious in my mind
It's another town that don't need my kind.

Tell your mama she was sure a dandy cook
Tell your papa that I understood his looks
If I put it all together you're a piece that wouldn't fit
Another town's a comin' up I guess.

Another town, another grocery store Another town, another set of swinging doors Somehow I'm a little bit suspecious in my mind It's another town that don't need my kind.

As I leave you let me leave you with this thought
Time is candy and we ate all that we bought
Those little tears you're cryin' are just wrappers on the groun d
That a new wind blows into another town.

Another town, another grocery store Another town another set of swinging doors Somehow I'm a little bit suspecious in my mind It's another town that don't need my kind.

It's another town that don't need my kind...