Beyond the Stars

thereDs a voice inside me a distant memory I know IDve lived before the elder world has fallen to an age of wars the tide has turned again

by the mercy of our sins we live our lives in a world made of dreams open your eyes release your astral ties and you will transcend beyond the stars

I can hear the suffering the hate inside and it pulls me to the ground bleeding hands are trembling can you forgive?

is there courage to believe?
