Floating on moonlight With my head on your knee; But, once again, babe I'm thinking about me. And, though we're feeling close And touching, too; You have to admit, babe, You're thinking about you. And, where do the stars end If I'm here all alone? And why am I feeling So far from home? Spoonful of moonlight A bottle of wine Just look at all those stars You're gonna have a good time. Out there in the darkness With the wolf and the owl; Oh, what does it matter If you scream or you howl? And, where do the stars end If I'm here all alone? And why am I feeling So far from home? Love is that stranger Who comes knocking at your door. Gives you a sweet taste Leaves you howling for more. You get that taste You've got to take it; But when you want more (and you will) You're gonna have to make it. And, where do the stars end If I'm here all alone? And why am I feeling So far from home?
