Midnight Train to Memphis

I was hiding from the sun once again I was running from the time my friend I've lost another war So, I poured one more and went home drunk again She was up when the key hit the lock And the clock looked at me just like the devil in disguise I saw it in her eyes - she'd be gone before the evenin' So, I poured another strong one and chopped a line from here to Texas Cause I've lost another good one - she's on the midnight train to Memphis With a brand new start, I swore I'd love from the heart I meant to change my ways But I've seen better days than the one's that's here this mornin' With a wife and kids at home with a job some where on some assembly line I wish I had that life - I bet you wish you had mine So, let's pour another tall one and chop a line from here to Texas Cause I've lost another good one - she's on the midnight train to Memphis [David Spade] Dude, what station is this? K snooze? Kid Rock I thought he was the American bad ass He's putting me to sleep. Nudge me if he gets over five decibals. I knew his first album was a good one But that's the way I am And this is how I jam All across the land from Alabam to bandstand Doped up rebel with an attitude Shit So fuck a bitch So fuck a bitch So fuck a bitch I won't switch won't quit my vices Flip the script cause I'm gonna slice the righteous Haven't you heard I don't refrain Free as a bird and so I won't change Livin it up Givin it up fuckin shit up What I'm gonna run my track from the D to Nantucket So fuck it - If you don't dig that, you can suck it. And it don't And it don't With an old suitcase, I swear I'll leave this place I'll get you back in time Can't drink you off my mind. So, I'll see you when I'm sober. I been looking for some reasons, but I ain't found one down in Texas I been changing with the seasons Walked in a new line back to Memphis.

Kid Rock