

Song For The Fells

Kiuas

Silently and high we stand where we've been for ages carved from the primal matter an infinity ago lone eagle soars by and greets us with it's echoing cry silently we welcome him to join us under the evening sky

We - we are the witnesses of countless legends we - know the secrets of the gods

We've been here since the earth's creation here we stand holding up the sky we posses the shards of ancient wisdom standing high we are the birthmarks of time

Someday our time will come since nothing is eternal when the final profecies are fullfilled we are the last ones to stand

We - we are the witnesses of countless legends
we - we know the secrets of the gods

We've been here since the earths creation
here we stand holding up the sky
we posses the shards of ancient wisdom
standing high we are the birthmarks of time