

The Flood's the Fault of the Rain

L.A. Guns

I can tell that you been to hell and through
Got the burns to show that you're strong, babe
Got no sympathy for your enemy
Anyway you define him

But it don't make you safe
And it won't make you whole
So don't be holding that pain anymore

Well the thunder, yeah, it's gonna roar
But you just send a warning right to their front door, baby
'Cause the flood's just the fault of the rain
When you're caught up in the game
You know you're not the one to take the blame, honey
'Cause the flood's just the fault of the rain

Don't you let 'em pass, pour yourself a glass
Full of kerosene, light the fire
Don't you stand alone just 'cause the demon's gone
That don't mean that you're over it

And it don't make him big
And that don't make him strong
So don't keep holding that pain anymore

Well the thunder is gonna roar
But you just send a warning right to their front door, baby
'Cause the flood's just the fault of the rain
When you're caught up in the game
You know you're not the one to take the blame, honey
'Cause the flood's just the fault of the rain
C'mon

Take aim a little higher, baby
Don't let it bleed out of your own vein
You don't need to do all that crying no more
Just let it rain
Let it rain on ya
Just let it rain

I can tell that you been to hell and through
Got the burns to show that you're strong, babe
Got no sympathy for your enemy
Anyway

Yeah, thunder, it's gonna roar
But you just send a warning right to their front door, baby
'Cause the flood's just the fault of the rain
When you're caught up in the game
You know you're not the one to take the blame
'Cause the flood's just the fault of the rain
'Cause the flood's just the fault of the rain