

Queen of The Ocean

Lana Lane

Sailing on a sea of glass
In autumn rain's
Winds of change
And underneath the waters still and dark
I swear I saw her face

Lay me down in leaves of grass
Where ocean air
Blows through my hair
And up above where the rainclouds gather round
I swear I saw her face

And when it thunders
She will return here again
Queen of the ocean
Enter the pale sovereign

Floating on silver waves
Let pools of tears
Release your fears
Walk behind the sky's deep yellow moon
And there you'll see her face

And when it thunders
She will return here again
Queen of the ocean
Enter the pale sovereign

And under the blue skies
A daydream rushes by
And down in the ebbs tides
Reflections caught my eye