

Dream Lover/Squid Suit

Lovers

dream lover come and find me i've been here i've been hiding. we'll make love like memories of a kitchen in the house where you grew up, with your brother in the tub, mother lying down but now you're wishing they would leave so you could cry, your squid suit only isolates you. i wish i had their eyes. i'd make them see how beautiful it is. dream lover come and find me i've been here i've just been hiding. we'll make love to remedy all the Christmases spent in front and throwing up the years of hurt and days of drugs and now they want you up for a family portrait. if they would leave then you could cry, your squid suit only isolates you. i wish i had their eyes. i'd make them see how beautiful it is. dream lover come and find me i've been here i've just been hiding. despite our mistakes we still deserve this. like highschoolers in camouflage, a pain so big it forms a pond, but year from now the pond becomes a forest. if they would leave then you could cry. your squid suit only isolates you. i wish i had their eyes. i'd make them see how beautiful it is. and i wrote by their portrait of the sea, "i'll still love you when the ocean tugs you from me." i'll still love you i'll still love you. i still love you.
