

Always Been You

Lucero

It was something like distance
Something like fate in the way
It was nobody's business
No one else cared anyway
It was something like breaking
Something like falling apart
But without you there's nothing
To keep me from falling too far

All those things that we wanted to say
Got left outside the song some place
But it's always been you
It's always been you

Well nothing else mattered
Nothing else even came close
Even at our worst we carried it better than most

All those things that we wanted to say
Got drowned in the river, just washed away
But it's always been you
It's always been you

Put aside the cruel things
And god damn the wedding rings
Tell me its always been me

All those things that we wanted to say
Well give me a chance and I'll say them today
But it's always been you
It's always been you

It's the only thing I've ever knew
And it's always been you
