

Everything Has Changed

Lucero

I can see the way I'm bound
Looking north headed south
The devil, he don't care which road I take
I've been runnin' long enough
Can see your hand I call your bluff
Looks like I'll be goddamned either way

Looking like darker days
Ain't nobody else to blame
Somewhere down in hell they call my name
Looking like another fight
The devil's drinking angel's rye
Well my friend, now everything has changed

She was all I once desired
Burned her letters in the fire
One morning by the river in the rain
He tapped in a sterno can
The letters gone just like the man
Ain't no fire can burn out my mistakes

Looking like darker days
Ain't nobody else to blame
Somewhere down in hell they call my name
Looking like another fight
The devil's drinking angel's rye

Well my friend, now everything has changed

There's no one like the one before
Little sister dance out on the porch
She's waiting for the jack of hearts
The devil's dancing on the bar
Well my friend let's have another round
Alright

From the hill I see the flames
They're closer now the wind has changed
Time to reap the harvest I have sown

There might be another way
But I don't care too much today
Let's do this now just leave me alone

Looking like darker days
Ain't nobody else to blame
Somewhere down in hell they call my name
Looking like another fight
The devil's drinking angel's rye
Well my friend, now everything has changed
Well my friend, now everything has changed
