

Splinter

Man Overboard

Left her car unlocked, staying outside, still no sign of him - she feels alright

She went back home again to compare with the place she's in

Staring at her car under the streetlight

If I'm allowed to stay, and if I wanna stay - I'll change every thing, cause you were everything

If I had my way, I would fix you up instead of always piss you off

If you never come home, then you really must know - I adored yo u, and I adore you now

If I'm really alone, then I really must go

Grab my book bag, make my way back home

Left her keys inside

No one cares now

There's nowhere left to hide, she's splitting hairs now

She doesn't like it here and now to her it's all quite clear, s taring at this place she's going home now

She's asking, "how did I let everything get so nasty?" you're g oing home now with something you wanted

You're going home now with something you want