

Love Walked In

Mark Schultz

All alone in a great big house
Nothing left but an empty vow
And two hearts who have all but given up
Bag packed and he said goodbye
But he's sitting in the car outside
Looking at a ring and a reason not to run

Love walked in through the door
Face to face with brokenness
Said, "It's still worth fighting for."
Crushed the doubt with a kiss
Walls fell down when love walked in

All alone in a cold, white room
They've only given him a week or two
And it's no surprise nobody calls
All he's got is regret and tears
He hasn't spoken to his kids in years
But he just heard his daughter in the hall

And it's the greatest story every told
That when it looked like there was no hope

Love walked in through the door
Face to face with brokenness
Said, "It's still worth dying for."
Met the world with a kiss
Walls fell down when Love walked in

When Love walked in
When Love walked in
When Love walked in
