I Am

Matt Monro

I am a leaf you are the wind Softly you blow and I fall down I am the sun cold noon dissolves And I die each night and I wake alone

I am the sand you are the tide You lay me down and you cast me wide I am the bed round which you flow

And as I lay there you drift and go

I am now free although I am My love's too strong I can't break it down I sing, I fly within you smile And I am again for just a while