

Too Young Too Soon

Matthew West

Hey there, Sam, that sure was some smile on your face
Standin' on the stage at the fifth grade Christmas play
You were everybody's friend, and nobody's enemy
But there were storm clouds deep inside you nobody else could see

What was really goin' on?
And now we can't believe you're gone

Too young, too soon
This world lost you
Hearts break in two
Too young, too soon

They say everybody's fightin' a hidden battle of their own
And I've fought my own enough to know it's true
Sometimes lonely makes it hard to see that you're really not alone
We would've gladly stood beside to fight your fight with you

But now we ask God why
I never thought we'd have to say goodbye

Too young, too soon
This world lost you
Hearts break in two
Too young, too soon
Too soon

It's way too young
It's way too soon
It's just too young
It's way too soon
Askin' God why

So be kind, speak love
Go find someone
Who needs a friend
Reach out your hand
Don't point, don't laugh
Life's too short for that
No cliques, start now
No one left out

'Cause hearts break in two
Too young, too soon
Hearts break in two
For the too young, too soon
