

Throughout our lives we are always searching for something
Sometimes it leads to nothing
We try to find ourselves a better place

Nothing we can do to change the past
Consider, dwell on all the times that you came in last
You can't move on, you don't have to erase

Why are you trying to pretend that you are something that you're not?
No matter how hard you try, the memory will be forgot

There's one life we are given
Confess your sins and you're forgiven
At least, that's what they said to me
I cannot fix what you say is not broken
You hide the truth with the words unspoken
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me

You're always searching for a better option
Trying to make your mind cannot be forgotten
I'm tired of pretending that your past I'm not remembering

Trust me cause I'm always honest
I've realize that I'm better off ignoring
Your strategy, your negativity, is such a tragedy!

Why are you pretending you are something that you're not?
Cause you don't have to try so hard your memory will be forgot

There's one life we are given
Confess your sins and you're forgiven
At least, that's what they said to me
I cannot fix what you say is not broken
You hide the truth with the words unspoken
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me

Don't pretend life is living in conformity
I don't need your authority
Tell me I'm wrong, but I'll be who I want to be
I'm fine being the minority

There's one life we are given
Confess your sins and you're forgiven
At least, that's what they said to me
I cannot fix what you say is not broken
You hide the truth with the words unspoken
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me
This is the life I chose for me