Waking To Winter

Mineral

In winter when the air gets cold And breathing causes white ghosts to appear

They light up the city with Christmas trees And strings that hang across the street From telephone pole to telephone pole

So that when I'm driving home at night Tired frustrated and pinned down by spite I'm reminded of your love Unlike these things will never change Or fade or pass away