

Too Much Change

Moby

What are we supposed to feel?
And what are we supposed to do?
And there's too much change
There's too much change

What are we supposed to say?
How are we supposed to stay?
There's too much change
There's too much change

And what are we supposed to feel?
What are we supposed to do?
And there's too much change
There's too much change

What are we supposed to say?
How are we supposed to stay?
And there's too much change
There's too much change

What are we supposed to feel?
And what are we supposed to do?
And there's too much change
There's too much change

What are we supposed to say?
How are we supposed to stay?
There's too much change
There's too much change

And what are we supposed to feel?
And what are we supposed to do?
And there's too much change
There's too much change

What are we supposed to say?
How are we supposed to stay?
And there's too much change
There's too much change

And there's too much change
There's too much change
And there's too much change
There's too much change

There's too much change
Too much change
There's too much change
There's too much change

And what are we supposed to feel?
And what are we supposed to do?
And there's too much change
There's too much change

What are we supposed to say?
How are we supposed to stay?

And there's too much change
There's too much change
