

Last Time

Moderat

When I was dead asleep
behind
Towering walls

They built a world outside and I missed the wake-up call

My stony breath crawled to the glory heavens be there was a sea of sound
But old silence that stole my sleep

When I was dead asleep
behind
Towering walls

missed the wake-up call

When I dragged cripple legs Through long winding streets
Fill me with suffering
And the people Would see right through me
