

Take My Life Away

More Than Life

Four years from now I'll have my say.
I'll think back to these sleepless nights.
Where we grew so close
And wished our lives away sang songs of death together,
Kissing in the twilight
When you whispered something
I wish you never said into winter
Our faces faded,
My knuckles cracked in the cold
But I didn't mind I was nearly home,
And I stayed by your side
Never wanted to think about our future,
I've had doubtful eyes
I can't erase the reality
I watched you walk away from me.
I watched you walk away, breathe in those memories,
Drown out those tears
Scream away those years.
I was never good enough to take your breath away
I was never good enough for you.
Guide your hand and take my life away
