The Youngest Was the Most Loved

Morrissey

The youngest was the most loved The youngest was the shielded We kept him from the world's glare And he turned into a killer

Retrousse nose
Turned up and mischievous
Forget-me-not eyes that cried if we ever left his side

There is no such thing in life as normal There is no such thing in life as normal

The youngest was the most loved The youngest was the cherub A small boy from a poor house Who turned into a killer

A blush, it rose
If he had to say 'hello'
A lop-sided grin
Strained to keep the shyness in

There is no such thing in life as normal There is no such thing in life as normal

The youngest was the most loved The youngest was the cherub The luck was all before him With a lovely wife beside him

The youngest was the most loved The youngest was the cherub We kept him from the world's glare And he turned into a killer

There is no such thing in life as normal There is no such thing in life as normal
