Falling From The Throne

Winds are changing In this world today In this century So many men have fallen We are blinded by power and gold Reaching for the top of the mountain

All our lives we try Reach the sky to find the reason

Since the garden of Eden Eating the forbidden fruit Man wants to go his own way We are screaming no mercy We're lords of this new world Building up an empire Reaching for the top of the mountain

We're falling, falling from the throne Keep falling, falling from the stars We're falling, falling from the throne Keep falling, falling from the stars

There was a man like you and me He paid the big prize all mankind He sacrificed everything The golden throne belongs to him

Winds are changing In this world today Man wants to go his own way Narnia