

I Don't Want to See Tomorrow

Nat King Cole

I don't want to see tomorrow
Unless I see it with you

Tomorrow, so they say
Will be a lovely day
A bright new sun will suddenly break through
But I don't want to see tomorrow
Unless I see it with you

Tomorrow, so I hear
The clouds will disappear
The door to happiness will open wide
But I don't want to see tomorrow
Unless you're there by my side

Don't want to walk alone
Don't want to dream alone
Just want you close to my heart

For if your love is gone
How can I face the dawn of
Sunday, or Monday?
I just can't face one day

Until you say you're mine
Oh, darling, please be mine
And make each bright tomorrow young and new
But I don't want to face tomorrow
Unless I see it with you

(Tomorrow, so I hear)
(The clouds will disappear)
(The door to happiness will open wide)
But I don't want to see tomorrow
Unless I see it with you
