In The Middle

Neal Morse

In the middle of the breaking through
There was still more that I was clinging to
That fear you feel like when you're almost gone
When you want to jump but you're still hanging on Come on!

And as I stood there praying in my mind I saw the things I couldn't leave behind The heart conceals what we cannot know As he revealed I cried out, "Let it go." Let's go!