The Conclusion Clothed With The Sun

Neal Morse

Bravely, strongly Watch the woman step into the light Gleaming, leaning On the arms of the one she loves This is all I ask for, this is all I've wanted to do Is to live with you forever And feel the beauty of your truth This is all I ask for To live a life that's pleasing to you And to be there ever after You know my heart you know it's true She's clothed with the sun My beloved is only one And her glory has just begun Can you see her with your eyes? She's prepared herself just for him (By the grace of God she's alive!) She has overcome all her sin (By the grace of God she's alive!) Let the day of the lamb begin (By the grace of God she's alive!) Can you see her glory rise?
