Grow into me like a vine through a sidewalk Struggling to reach for the sky Grow into me like the veins on my forehead that stand out whenever I cry

Oh, I will wrap my arms around you like a long coat in winter Oh, will you stay with me on thinning ice and trust me to lead? Will you be everything I need?

Climb next to me up the trail, up the mountain Even though times running out Night falls around, there's no light in the distance Only my shadows of doubt

Oh, I will wrap my arms around you like a long coat in winter Oh, will you stay with me on thinning ice and trust me to lead? Will you be everything I need?

Will you be everything I need?
