

Blame

Otherwise

Does it make it better
When it's all too hard to see
If it makes it better
You can blame it all on me

Burned by the echoes of the rising sun
Are you the only one
There's just one question on your mind today
How do you go on
It happens every time
Each time you cross the line
Those doors they keep on closing
You're out of luck before it's all begun
How do you go on

Does it make it better
When it's all too hard to see
And if it makes it better
You can blame it all on me

Well there's no escape
When all your skeletons decide your fate
But if you stand and wait
You'll be the victim of your own dismay

Does it make it better
When it's all too hard to see
And if it makes it better
You can blame it all on me

When the light is dying
And it's just too hard to be
If it takes forever
We'll break down beautifully

Does it make it better
When it's all too hard to see
And if it makes it better
You can blame it all on me

Does it make it better
When it's all too hard to see
And if it makes it better
You can blame it all on me
