

I've Had This Dream Before

Outline in Color

And I can still see you walking through the snow in my direction,
And all of the warmth that came rushing back.
All of the dried up lakes in my heart became an ocean,
'Cause you were the flood at long last.

And I wanna' know what it feels like to look into your eyes tonight.
And I wanna' know what it feels like to love someone without looking back, back.

I'm chasing that feeling that I felt at Christmas time,
When the world stood still under your sheets, I couldn't move if I tried.
And I never knew I could be so scared of something so divine...

'Said "It's just a nightmare..."

And I wanna' know what it feels like, to look into your eyes tonight.
And I wanna' know what it feels like, to love someone without looking back.
And I wanna' know what it feels like, to forget you were in my life.
And I wanna' know what it feels like, to love someone without looking back, back...