

Home

Paradise Fears

Can you feel this? The walls are closing,
Slipping further from the hand we're holding,
Feel the footsteps incing closer – still so far away.
It's 2 am, but I can't sleep,
I'm running circles in my head around a restless dream,
I know I'm not the person that I used to be but I still can't shake this, no I can't take this.

You said, you said,
"Are you finding me right where you're supposed to be?"
But I said, I said,
"I'm so scare to want this knowing
All that I want is

Home
Why am I everywhere but home?
Why do I feel so alone
When everybody's screaming out my name?
I just wanna go home,
Pack my bags and hit the road,
Knowing all I need to find is the life I left behind,
I just wanna go home.

Home is where they say the heart is,
But mine can't figure out just where we started,
So caught between chasing this dream,
And watching what I left fall apart.

My mom, I swear she's every face I see,
And my dad, when I'm gone, he can't sleep.
They tell me that the world is waiting for me
But I hate watching my brother growing up without me.

You said, you said,
"Are you finding me right where you're supposed to be?"
But I said, I said,
"I'm begging on my knees, please God just take me

Home
Why am I everywhere but home?
Why do I feel so alone
When everybody's screaming out my name?
I just wanna go home,
Pack my bags and hit the road,
Knowing all I need to find is the life I left behind,
I just wanna go home.

When the miles are getting longer, streets are getting darker,
You've got nowhere to turn, and the walls are closing in
On you and everyone you love,
Feels like there's no one left to trust,
I just need something to believe,
So please god just take me

Home
Why am I everywhere but home?
Why do I feel so alone

When everybody's screaming out my name?
I just wanna go home,
Pack my bags and hit the road,
Knowing all I need to find is the life I left behind,
I just wanna go home.