

Here For You

Peabo Bryson

Don't forget that love is all around
It's here to lift you up and hold you when you're down
There's a helping hand, someone who cares and understands
With you all the while, someone who'll never stop until they make you smile

I know that there lies a rainbow at the end of every storm
We only need one tiny ray of light to help us through the dawn
Just keep on searching for the positive in the possibility
And you will never let go of your hopes and your dreams
We will rise like the tides of the sea

Please believe you'll never be alone
So don't you be afraid when you're facing the unknown
Let the power of your faith guide you through challenges you face
Any tears you may cry, let them wash away the pain that's in your life

I know that there lies a rainbow at the end of every storm
We only need one tiny ray of light to help us through the dawn
Just keep on searching for the positive in the possibility
And you will never let go of your hopes and your dreams
We will rise like the tides of the sea

Never give up trying to make the world smile
We must find a way that every man and woman, every child
Has a chance to find a rainbow

I know that there lies a rainbow at the end of every storm
We only need one tiny ray of light to help us through the dawn
Just keep searching for the positive in the possibility
And you'll never let go of your hopes and your dreams
I'll be there for you—will you be there for me?
We will rise like the tides of the sea

Oh, we will rise out of the stormy sea
Rising, rising, rising, rising
