In the state of Mississippi many years ago
A boy of 14 years got a taste of Southern law
He saw his friend a hanging and his color was his crime
And the blood upon his jacket left a brand upon his mind

Too many martyrs and too many dead Too many lies too many empty words were said Too many times for too many angry men Oh let it never be again

His name was Medgar Evers and he walked his road alone Like Emmett Till and thousands more whose names we'll never kno $\ensuremath{\mathbf{w}}$

They tried to burn his home and they beat him to the ground But deep inside they both knew what it took to bring him down

Too many martyrs and too many dead Too many lies too many empty words were said Too many times for too many angry men Oh let it never be again

The killer waited by his home hidden by the night As Evers stepped out from his car into the rifle sight he slowly squeezed the trigger, the bullet left his side It struck the heart of every man when Evers fell and died.

Too many martyrs and too many dead Too many lies too many empty words were said Too many times for too many angry men Oh let it never be again

And they laid him in his grave while the bugle sounded clear laid him in his grave when the victory was near While we waited for the future for freedom through the land The country gained a killer and the country lost a man

Too many martyrs and too many dead Too many lies too many empty words were said Too many times for too many angry men Oh let it never be again