Congratulations, what a move you made You made a move with certain precision I never thought you'd bring me down so far You know I feel so cold without your presence

I'm sailing along on an endless tide with you And it's breaking my poor heart in two

Believing all is lost is mere suggestion And the question has no answer But on the other hand, our hope is destined To find a place to settle

I'm sailing along on an endless tide with you And it's breaking my poor heart in two

Sooner or later you'll find that your fate is decided But don't you believe the sun shines forever You've got to make last all the love in your heart A moment's lost but time is free

I'm sailing along on an endless tide with you And it's breaking my poor heart

Sooner or later you'll find that your fate is decided But don't you believe the sun shines forever You've got to make last all the love in your heart A moment's lost but time is free

Sooner or later you'll find that your fate is decided But don't you believe the sun shines forever You've got to make last all the love in your heart A moment's lost but time is free