The Day You Come

Powderfinger

Memories are fading, A single voice complaining While days are stacking up
It's hardly worth debating, The people are frustrated Drink from poison cup
The system is collapsing, Conscience is relapsing
The damage has been done

On the day you come rising up On the day you come rising up

Vision is rejected, The people's choice is tested So ignorance has won Children are infected, Remedy suggested Don't drink from poison cup Overpopulation, media sensations The damage has been done

On the day you come rising up On the day you come rising up
