How can I change the world but can't change myself
How can I please the world but not guide himself
How can I have the world, still need some help
How can I see the world, stuck in this box

I've been trying to figure out my life
I can't see, even in plain sight
Though I cry, my tears don't bring light
Your life is in your rearview

How can I change the world, but can't change myself
How can I please the world, but not guide himself
How can I lead the world, when I'm scared to try
Why should I need the world, we all gon' die

I thank God for giving us this life
The day your born, someone else dies
All in love, all is in life
Your life is in your rearview

Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
Your life is in your rearview
