

The Soldier

Red Line Chemistry

Lying lifelessly
As my angel comes down
To regenerate the body of a worn and solitary man
With her hand

Calm is the mind, open eyes
Suddenly, I raise my head and then she cried
Her tears fell down to strengthen my desires, I'm

Holding on
So tight
Only time for one more night
Memory
Rest and all is well

Staring up at the unknown
Is a sight saddening me
Rested on my armor was her body, not a human could ever relate
Over me

All is divine, open eyes
Suddenly, I raise my head and then she cried
Her tears fell down as comfort for the dying, I'm

Holding on
So tight
Only time for one more night
Enemy
Let me be, I'm holding on
So tight
Dead and gone is one more life

(Oh, be still my heart) Won't you hold my heart, love
(Won't you hold my heart) Death is all around us
(Death is all around) Oh, be still my heart

Holding on
So tight
Only time for one more night
Enemy
Let me be, I'm holding on
So tight
Dead and gone is one more life

Holding out to see my
Lovely goddess come down to ground
Holding out to feel my World and sanity blown away as our World is falling to pieces
The violence of our days
God, it's falling to pieces
Your soldier died today