

So Many Women, So Little Time

Robert Cray

Well somebody called and gave me the word
And I'm gonna tell you people just what I heard
I'm gonna tell you for free and it won't cost a dime
There's so many women, so little time

So many women, but so little time

You know sometimes I wonder just why I'm alive
Seems like all we do is try to stay alive
But then I think and remember that line
So many women, so little time

You know there's so many women, so little time

Now every night's a different town
Can't help sometimes from feeling down
But then we get full on smoke or wine, yeah, yeah
There's so many women, so little time

So many women, so little time

You know some people say this life is strange
Some folks say I've got to make a change
Then that thought will cross my mind
And you know there's so many women, so little time

So many women, but so little time

Oh, somebody called and gave me the word
And I've got to tell you people just what I heard
I'm gonna tell you for free, won't charge you a dime
You know there's so many women, so little time

So many women, but so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
So many women, so little time
