

Half the Moon

Rumer

Half the moon is shining tonight
And half the moon is pitch black
And I've got half a chance that you might Turn around and come back
And half my love is seeing the light
And half my love is still blind
And keeps on thinking tomorrow
You'll change your mind

Half our hearts were doing just fine
And half our hearts were in doubt
Half the time while walking the line
I ended up stepping out
And half my prayers were praying to God
And half my prayers were to you
Tonight it looks like the answers
Are overdue

And I'm feeling just how hard
Half the moon can pull
I swear my heart might crack in two
If that moon were full

Half the moon is shining tonight
And half the moon's up and gone
You must have taken half of its light
To find the road that you're on

And half my love is seeing the truth
And half my love is still blind
It makes that missing half the moon
Hard to find
It makes that missing half the moon
Hard to find