

I'm Sorry And I Love You

Ryan Adams

I remember you before you hated me
Before you traded me for someone new
I remember you, tall and flattering
Walking next to me under the moon

If I could hold your hand maybe you'd understand
How blue that I am
If I could see your face maybe you could erase
The lies with the truth
If you could look into my eyes past the question marks

Besides, I'm sorry and I love you
I'm sorry and I love you

I remember you laughing in the snow
Smoking cigarettes, looking at the cars below
I remember things that we never got to say
Notes left on the wall by the bed

If I could see you now I'd try and tell you how Blue that I am
If I could see your face maybe it could erase
The lies with the truth
If you could look into my eyes past the question mark

Besides, I'm sorry and I love you
I'm sorry and I love you
I'm sorry and I love you
I'm sorry, I'm sorry
And I love you
