So Many Things

Sarah Brightman

And so many things I'd forgotten In a world that we shared With so many things for the asking Never asked for the madness there Strange how I find myself So often on a distant shore

There's only one thing that's confusing Was it you? Was it me? With so many questions unanswered Or was that part of your mystery? Strange how I find myself So often on a distant shore

So many things I'd forgotten

So many things for the asking

Strange how I find myself So often on a distant shore How I find myself So often on a distant shore