

Beloved

Say Lou Lou

To who do you compare me
Recreate to mold me
And frozen in that ambition
You square me up
The words are soft and wooly
They strip me up to feel me
I used to feel protection from your touch

And if I am your beloved
Then why don't I fit?
Oh, if I'm your beloved
Why don't I fit here?
We lie together but I feel so alone
When I give everything I have to you
Why is it never enough?

For me there was nobody
You were the one and only
But now I'm uninvited
Inside your love

And if I am your beloved
Then why don't I fit?
Oh, if I'm your beloved
Why don't I fit here?
We lie together but I feel so alone
When I give everything I have to you
Why is it never enough?

Take, take, twist shape
Tell me what you want from me
Cold shots from your embrace
Love is a faade for hate
Don't speak, skin creep
It's only faults you see in me
No sweeter words to say

Tell me why am I your beloved
Then why don't I fit?
Oh, if I'm your beloved
Why don't I fit here?
We lie together but I feel so alone
When I give everything I have to you
Why is it never enough?

Take, take, twist shape
Tell me what you want from me
Cold shots from your embrace
Love is all for self or hate
Don't speak, skin creep
It's only faults you see in me
No sweeter words to say

Tell me why am I your beloved
Then why don't I fit?
Oh, if I'm your beloved
Why don't I fit here?

We lie together but I feel so alone
When I give everything I have to you
Why is it never enough?
