

What's Said Is Done

Scary Kids Scaring Kids

We watch these days go by The seasons changed and faded away, and the the things I've learned to love grow old and die (no reason why, no reason why, no reason why, no reason why)
cause life's too short to spend alone in misery Everybody seems to look the same I feel so alone and now my head is bowed in shame again, so I look to the heart of the devil for answers

This path is like a loaded gun
but what's said is done
you don't have to say a word

I'm so afraid to ask
I turn my back, block out the past find me something true that isn't sad
I'm so afraid to ask
this solace never seems to last
I turn away as the sunshine fades to black

I spend my nights and days Locked away there all the same I don't know how much more I can take
cause life's too short to spend alone in misery

but what's said is done
you don't have to say a word

This path is like a loaded gun
but what's said is done
you don't have to say a word

This path is like a loaded gun
but what's said is done
you don't have to say a word to say a word, to say a word

I'm so afraid to ask
I turn my back, block out the past
find me something true that isn't sad

I'm so afraid to ask
I turn away as the sunshine fades to black

I'm so afraid to ask
I turn my back, block out the past
find me something true that isn't sad

but what's said is done
you don't have to say a word...
