

You Know Where It's At

Screaming Trees

Winds are fake but you're over there
Didn't sit here long inside my stare
In this pale blue sky you saw the error
Strange to see how your vision narrows

An unspoken thing
In your ears it rings
You know where it's at now

If you've time for one inspection
You took off in the wrong direction
And nobody wants to hear
Like so many did when their days were clear

An unspoken thing
In your ears it rings
You know where it's at now

Something died when you said goodbye

Hardly time for one last look
Giving up on what we took
It's no good unless we stand face to face
So long my friend

An unspoken thing
In your ears it rings
You know where it's at now
You know where it's at now

Something died, when you said goodbye
