

Hold on
Just long enough to watch the pages turn
You wanted something to see here
You wanted something that nobody loves
And none of us get enough

There's something dying to live
And nothing left here to think about
Destroy the feeling

Our moment is here and well you can't stop us now
Rediscover and shed the skin that's holding us down

It's done
You paid the price for all the ones you burn
Now there's only you and me here
We wanted someone that nobody loves
And we finally had enough

There's something dying to live
And nothing left here to think about
Destroy the feeling

Our moment is here and well you can't stop us now
Rediscover and shed the skin that's holding us down

The blood opens eyes
Opens minds set for war
The moment that we start building walls

Our moment is here and well you can't stop us now
Rediscover and shed the skin that's holding us down

The blood opens eyes
Opens minds set for war
The words tear you down and we keep building walls