

I Still Belong To You

Skeeter Davis

I thought of leaving you a note but every time I start
There's nothing blue enough to write this feeling in my heart
Sometimes I'd like to run away but where would I run to My heart would keep reminding me I still belong to you.

Many times I've had the urge to pack my things and leave
But this feeling comes and goes so I'll never do Cause I love you enough to stand the things you've put tme thro ugh
No matter what you'd do to me I still belong to you.

I'm hurt inside but what's his pride it won't keep me warm at n ight
It has no arms to take me in and hold me like you do
What a little bit of love you give is all I'm clinging to
It takes your love to make me live I still belong to you.

It takes your love to make me live I still belong to you...
