

I'll Be Ok

Sondre Lerche

You who attacked my old heart with a glance
And you placed it with something new
You ran away as the pendulum swung
I had only begun

I'll be OK
I'll be OK

You who replaced every beat that was false
And uptight like a metronome
You should've stayed 'cause that winter was long
But by dawn you were gone

I'll be OK
I'll be OK

You who resigned when I finally decided
That I was alive

I'll be OK
I'll be OK

I'll be OK
I'll be OK
