Sondre Lerche

I was floating on a stream Words came easy as theY seemed And as conversations go I let this one go off enough Tonight I'll just sit here on my back When you're applauding your fine mind Darker corners come to shine The quality control I run The filters that I use What I've forgotten.is now forgotten What I've forgotten. (no, no) is now forgotten (oh well) But I think you're in my soul And it warms me to know that you'll still be in charge of the heart's content It's our job It's our job to breathe Yes it warms me to know that I'll still be in charge of your heart's content It's our job

It's our job to breathe
