

Angel Song

Souldrainer

At my daily visit to the graveyard, visiting my loved ones grave

Someone was watching me as I put the flowers next to the stone

She approached and said it was time

She appeared to be an angel here only for me

I never thought that I would die without saying goodbye

I never thought that I would leave everything behind

I never thought it would be now, I just want to stay

I never thought it would be in such a painful way

I ran away, I tried to forget what I've been told

I could not accept, I never thought of it like this

What? Is this how it's like?

It didn't matter how fast I ran

She was always there, waiting for me

She took up a knife and started to cut me everywhere

Her eyes were black, full of hate and I was really scared

She took up a knife and started to cut me everywhere
