Leave a Little Light On

Status Quo

Remember back, when you were young your mother said "that's quite enough" so sleep tight don't let the bedbugs bite goodnight my child

You didn't know true or false the star is heard when the darkness falls and under your door, creatures would squeeze and you always had to shout "Mama please..."

Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on

So in love, couldn't ask for more a hungry romance hey, you know the score it was destiny, we had to meet and I could hardly walk for one whole week

Coming up, she looked outta town miles from nowhere, broken down in the wind and rain lost without a clue searching for a phone so I could tell her too

Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on

When I get old, it's time to go what body and ailments still playing shows I'll be safe and sound for eternity So Mr God, when you're ready for me

leave a little light on for $\ensuremath{\mathsf{me}}$ Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me Leave a little light on, a little light on leave a little light on for me
