

Life = Love = God Machine

Steel Prophet

Is life just a law just like gravity, the pull of love in some god machine?

They say you can't stop it when the heart wants

What it wants, come around puts you down and then begins again

They brought you to your knees, the salary of love isn't guaran teed

Terminates, and then you're freed

One day you're up, next day you're down

Your smile goes minus = a frown

The god machine resist all change

So your heart must rearrange

There is no way to change a law, your heart cracks

You're feeling raw

No difference between the lines

It only ends when you're feeling fine

So the story goes begins and then it ends

Love is for family, girls and friends

When you're bit you suck the venom out

Spit it out before your tongue burns

You say, you've tried it twice and so

You never learn

School of god machine 'em you

Bachelor they're gonna kick you out

Your professors goes round about

One day you're up, next day you're down

Your smile goes minus = a frown

The god machine resist all change

So your heart must rearrange

There is no way to change a law, your heart cracks

You're feeling raw

No difference between the lines

It only ends when you're feeling fine