Shalom

Terence Trent D'Arby

The cradle of my desire Is at your command What's in a name Sha lom? Segue to my street and

In the middle of it say hello In the fragrance of your peace A blossom falls And my memory remembers

An angel call What's in a name Shalom? Segue to my street and I n the middle of it say hello

On the trail of where a kiss leads to I breathe a sigh Invisibl e voices say hello And then goodbye

Maybe she'll come back Maybe she'll come back home What's in a name Shalom? Segue to my street and

In the middle of it say hello And on Dovetail Junction is a car avan Where the cradle of my desire is At your command

Maybe she'll come back Maybe she'll come back home What's in a name Shalom? Segue to my street and

In the middle of it say hello In the fragrance of your peace ${\tt A}$ blossom falls ${\tt And}$ my memory remembers

An angel call The well of loneliness is wet with tears As a can opy of clouds steals The limelight from the stars
