

Song In Space

The Church

You, you wake up late
Yet you're asleep inside a dream
Then you feel something
Superimposed upon your thoughts

They say that in the future
Every man and woman will be a star
And everybody's shining
And it's blinding and they don't see too far

You can't spend the whole song in space

Next you move outside
You feel grey rain upon your skin
In the muted hush
The raindrops crash, the seconds roar

They say we're all assembled
From the tiny pieces of the red shift
The elevator's later
But it's swifter to just wait for a lift

You can't spend the whole song in space
Yeah

Life, the new frontier
An interlude eternity
You, you drink some wine
You had a smoke, you got to smile

They say that at the speed of light
The particles all get quite excited
But out here in this universe
It's bursting and we're all so delighted

You can't spend the whole song
You can't spend the whole song in space

You can't spend the whole song in space
You can't spend the whole song in space
You can't spend the whole song in space
In space
